Mayor Chitwood In $50,000.00 Slander Law Suit

Repercussions of the case of Irma M. Barnes vs. John J. Walsh resounded last night when the city council learned that Walsh has named Mayor John Chitwood and the City of Carmel in a cross complaint filed in Superior Court, November 26.

Walsh charges Mayor Chitwood with libel and slander and asks $50,000 damages, basing his claim on a statement he alleges the mayor made in a public hearing July 9. He asks exemplary and punitive damages to the amount of $10,000 against the City of Carmel, charging that the denial of a building permit for a lot he had sold to Irma M. Barnes was motivated by malice. He asks the Superior Court for a writ of mandate declaring the property a legal building site.

The council instructed City Attorney John Morse to act for the city and for Mayor Chitwood.

Morse will file a demurrer this afternoon in effect that Walsh's complaint doesn't state cause of action against the mayor because the mayor has the right of free comment during the time the council is in session. At such time his remarks are "privileged." Nor does Walsh's complaint state cause of action against the city because a municipal corporation is not liable for suit except as provided by state code, and this action does not come under one of those provisions.

In the same action, Walsh asks $50,000 damages against Irma M. Barnes and May E. Youngberg, charging libel and slander arising out of alleged statements made at (Continued on Page Eleven)

2 Councilmen Regard Area Planning With Little Enthusiasm

The Carmel City Council last night voted to string along with the new Area Planning Commission, despite protests from Councilmen Cannon Norberg, that Carmel's joining the organization would amount to "just another attempt of the Monterey tail to wag the Carmel dog."

Official action in the matter, which occupied a large part of the meeting time, was the approval of a payment to the commission of $92.31, which represents Carmel's pro rata share of the $1200 cost to implement an analysis of area planning.

"The $92.31 is only the beginning," Norberg objected. "And anyway, it's not the money but the principle of the thing."

"Historically, Monterey has always wanted more commercial and industrial activity while Carmel has not. In critical situations Carmel would be outvoted in an area group because the population in the physical area of the Peninsula is larger than ours."

"If Carmel is going to be a suburb anywhere, it should be a suburb of the world, not Monterey." Norberg also took issue with the fact that Keith Evans, chairman of the area commission, is also co-chairman of the County Planning Commission, which recently overrode the petition from 1200 Carmelites and a recommendation of the Carmel City Council when it allowed quarter-acre building sites in the Carmel Knolls subdivision at the mouth of Carmel Valley.

In parrying Norberg's remarks, Councilman Thomas E. May Jr. said, "If we don't use every device and instrument of government possible in our planning programs, we may be letting ourselves in for some crushing mistakes."

May, himself a member of the area body, pointed out that the commission has no final decision, but only represents the area before the county group. Under the plan, the city planning commissions remain sovereign.

Councilman Allen Knight, who admitted, "I'm not entirely sold one way or the other," suggested that the Carmel Planning Commission alone might do more locally "without outside experts to tell us."

"We already have," Knight (Continued on Page Fourteen)

"Rolly" Belvail flicks switch of Carmel Fire Department's new radio communications system. Del Wermuth prepares to record the message and Fire Chief Robert Smith stands by to see if it works. It does . . . providing communication with police department and fire equipment out on a job. The new communications room was completed this week, and to celebrate, the fire department invites the citizens to open house Saturday afternoon. See story below.

Fire Department Asks "The Pleasure Of Your Presence" On Saturday

The Carmel Volunteer Fire Department will hold open house Saturday from 1:00 to 5:00 o'clock to show the townspeople the newly completed communications room. Coffee and doughnuts, courtesy of the Volunteers.

"The new room houses radio transmitter and receiver, and intercom system between police and fire department. There are also facilities for sleeping one fireman so he will be ready to respond instantly to alarm signals."

One of the top-rated fire departments in Monterey County, using volunteers, Carmel's fire department is a unique body long pointed out as a model of its kind. It has continued to improve in proficiency since the arrival of Robert E. Smith, the fire chief, three years ago.

Now comprising a force of 45 members, the group includes five paid men and 40 volunteers, divided into three companies. The organization is set up for instantaneous action. The fire house, located approximately in the center of its operating area, is completely paid for. Similarly, all the equipment is owned outright by the town. There are no debts or outstanding bonds. The fire house was built in 1937 and recently has been remodeled and repainted. The building contains housing for four vehicles, a workshop, tool room, large meeting room, two bedrooms, and enlarged and modernized kitchen. It has a hose deck and an electrical hose dryer.

The Carmel Fire Department was founded in 1915, and one man, Robert Leidig, who now serves as Fire Marshal, has been an active member all that time.

Alarms are received by the department by phone or by notification from the police department. The alarm is transmitted to the volunteers by a 10 HP siren. In addition, there is a new bell system recently installed and maintained by the telephone company, which is connected to home bells at the residences of some 19 firemen who live in areas where the siren may not be heard readily. The new system also serves the purpose, Chief Smith says, of being able to turn out a minimum number of men for specific smaller jobs without having to arouse the entire department.

Good equipment is owned by the department and includes a GMC engine pumper capable of turning out 750 gallons of water per minute, a Mack engine pumper which can turn out 1000 gallons per minute, a Chevrolet pumper which can (Continued on Page Four)

HARTNELL PANTHERS CLAW LOBOS BUT MISS INVITE TO BOWL

Coach Ken Blue's Hartnell College gridders rolled to a 54-0 win over the luckless Monterey Peninsula College Lobos on Thanksgiving Day but the big win wasn't enough to gain the coveted Junior Rose Bowl invitation. Hartnell was given strong consideration along with Santa Monica and Riverside but the JRB selection committee chose nearby Santa Monica to represent the western junior colleges at Pasadena.

The anticipated bitter contest between Monterey and Hartnell turned into a rout for the Panthers as the Hartnell split-T attack shattered the Lobo defenses for touchdowns in every quarter. The Lobos made a brief run for a touchdown in the early going when quarterback Claude Crabb tossed a look-in pass to Larry Guilford good for a 45-yard gainer to the Panther 18-yard line. However, the scrappy Panthers dug in with a solid defense to halt the Monterey drive at the 12. From this point on it was all Hartnell as Cabanyog, Stireman, and Machado took turns packing the ball.

The Hartnell shocker closed out the season for Coach George Porter's Lobos who turned in sparkling performances against all opposition except arch-rival Hartnell. The MPC gridders were feted at the Optimist Club banquet Tuesday night where Bob Bronzan, former San Jose State College head mentor, was the featured speaker.

PADRES AND LOBOS AT CARMEL HIGH GYM SATURDAY NIGHT

A unique basketball doubleheader is in store for hoop filberts this Saturday night at the Carmel High School gymnasium where the Padre varsity takes on the Monterey Peninsula College reserves in a 7:00 o'clock joust and the Lobo varsity hosts the classy College of Sequoias Giants in an 8:00 o'clock feature tilt. This will be the first outing for Coach Dan Yurkovich's varsity this season and the Padres should get plenty of competition from the ambitious Lobo reserves. The Red and Gray hoopsters are favored to walk away with the B-league title this season and are capable of holding their own with any of the prep squads in the area. An all-veteran starting unit of Frank Wallace, Dale Dawson, Dennis Peavey, Bill Hicks and Russ Wise gives the Padres outstanding shooting, speed in the front line, and a solid defense. Dawson was one of the league's top scorers last season and has been sharpening his eye since school started in preparation for another banner season. Hicks and Peavey are good drivers, Wallace is the playmaker, and Wise can keep the defense honest with his soft jump shots. The Padres have good bench strength with Chris Wilkin, John Wilkin, Pete Willcox, Craig Smith, Lee Harms, Walt Helm and Dave Farr ready to spell the starters. Saturday night's 8:00 o'clock feature game should be a good one as the speedy Lobos try to run away from the big Sequoia squad. The visiting Giants have big timber up front and two classy guards to feed the skyscrapers while Coach Pete Peletta's Lobos are on the small but swift side. The Lobos starting lineup will have Gabe King and Art King, forwards, Len Bertolini, center, with Ray Moore and Bill Russell at the guard spots.

TOUGH GOING FOR PADRE LIGHTWEIGHTS IN GILROY TOURNAMENT

Carmel High's lightweight basketball squad journeyed to Gilroy during the past week end for some competition in the Gilroy Invitational Tournament and picked up lots of valuable playing experience while bowing to the winning Salinas Cowbabs and to the Gilroy Colts. Salinas was too swift for the comparatively inexperienced Carmel lights and ran away to a 39-21 win. Salinas later copped the whole thing by downing Live Oak in Saturday night's finals. The Padre Babes took on Gilroy in the consolation round on Saturday night and finished on the short end of a 32-24 score.

Dance Group Offers Four Ballets In Saturday Concert

Four complete ballets will make up the program for the Monterey Peninsula Civic Ballet Company's concert to be given on Saturday evening, 8:15 o'clock, in the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium.

Echo and Narcissus, choreography by Alexandra Sawicka, set to an original score for two pianos by Frank Bourman will have its premier performance. This ballet is a romantic version of the Greek classic of the same name. Rosalia Kurowska will dance the role of Echo, partnered by Frank Bourman in the role of Narcissus. Walter Kelsey, arranger and composer, former concert master of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, and Ernest Tweedy, Jr., have arranged this impressionistic piano score. Pianists for the concert will be Ernest Tweedy, Jr., and Golden Arrington.

The Neon Circle to music by Shostakovich will also have its premier performance. It tells the story of a young country boy and his adventures with life in the Big City. Assisting Mrs. Ivanovsky, who created the ballet, is her husband Donat, who coached the dancers in their dramatic characterizations. He also designed the gay costumes and the unusual stage set. Helping him with the stage set were Nancy Hane, Nicky Le Fleur, George Gruber, Talick Volminsky, Richard Crutchfield and Paul Scholastico.

Kira Ivanovsky studied with Maria Nevelska and Egorova. She has appeared with many companies in major cities throughout the world including Ballet Nemchinova, Ballet Kniazeff and the Colonel de Basil Ballet Russe. Before coming to the peninsula, she taught in New London, Connecticut, organizing concerts and working as choreographer with the Connecticut School of Music and the Eastern Connecticut Symphony. Her training has also included study of the ethnic dances of India with Brasabashi Singh and Pianki Anjaria.

Eine Kleine Nachtmusik was created by Miss Mary Clare Sale, complimenting the pure style of Mozart's music. The gentle wind singing through the trees, stirring the leaves and flowers, the ripple of water on a summer night is the particular feeling conveyed by this ballet.

Cakewalk, choreography by Vonn Hamilton to music by Gottschalk-Kay, is a merry prankish ballet, the bright costumes matching the gay rhythms of the music.

Lighting will be handled by James McIntire. Sound system by Meagher Electronics. Co-ordinating all of these efforts is Dorothy Dean Stevens, director of the company.

Voters In Line For Prize As Well As Store Decorators

Deadline for the public to vote for first, second and third choices among Carmel merchants' indoor and outdoor Christmas decorations is midnight December 21, according to Walt Pilot, chairman of the Carmel Business Association-sponsored Christmas decoration contest.

Voters may obtain a ballot in any Carmel Business Association member's establishment. Only one ballot may be entered in the contest. Drawing prize of a $25 Savings Bond will be awarded to two lucky voters. Either an indoor or outdoor Christmas decoration in the business district, receiving the greatest number of votes, will receive a $50 cash first prize. The display with the second highest number of votes gets $40, the third $25.

The Christmas decoration contest is not confined to Carmel residents.

Lee Kellogg

Lee O. Kellogg, retired mining engineer and Carmel resident since 1935, died on Tuesday night in a local hospital following a short illness. He was the brother of the late Miss Clara Kellogg and the late Miss Ella Kellogg.

Mr. Kellogg was born in 1881 in Rochester, Minnesota, the son of Cyrus H. Kellogg and Julia Olds Kellogg. He was president of the graduating class at the University of Minnesota in 1902. In 1906 Mr. Kellogg received his mining engineering degree from Columbia University School of Mines.

His first job was with the Rincon Mining Company in Mexico. He continued his mining engineering career in Mexico and New Mexico until 1916, then went to Portovello, Ecuador, as general superintendent of the South American Development Company.

Mr. Kellogg retired in 1928 and first lived in Palo Alto. In 1935 he moved to Carmel and purchased a house on Scenic Drive at Eleventh Avenue and enrolled his three children at Sunset School.

He served as a member of the Carmel Sanitary Board for eight years, the latter part of this time as president. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi and Tau Beta Pi engineering society. Gardening, cabinet work and travelling were Mr. Kellogg's hobbies. From 1914-16 he was editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal.

Survivors are his wife, Alice, and son, John L. Kellogg, both of Carmel; two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Woodyard of Berkeley and Mrs. Mary Chapman of Fullerton; and six grandchildren.

Fire Department Asks "The Pleasure Of Your Presence" Saturday

pour 250 gallons per minute on a fire. The GMC and Chevrolet are equipped with high-pressure fog pumps which are highly efficient in fighting fires. All trucks are radio equipped.

The department has various breathing masks, resuscitators, salvage and rescue equipment, a special lighting system and smoke ejector.

On all general alarms, the GMC is the first truck out, and is followed by the Mack and Chevrolet. The first and third go directly to the fire and begin operating with high pressure lines. The Mack lays lines to the nearest hydrant and pumps as required. (There are 103 hydrants within the city limits). Additional men and equipment are available, on call, since Carmel has a mutual aid agreement with Pacific Grove, Monterey and Carmel Highlands Fire Departments.

The Chevrolet crew is trained to do whatever salvage and rescue work is necessary. Some of the equipment, such as the smoke ejector, which was made locally, was furnished on the recommendation of the Volunteers.

When Chief Smith took over, the department was rated by the Pacific Board of Fire Underwriters as Class 7. It is now Class 4. This change in rating has resulted in a drop in fire insurance rates.

Here are Santa and his helpers. They will contribute to the entertainment at the Carmel Youth Center's Ninth Annual Christmas Capers at Sunset Auditorium on Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock. This annual free show is the youth center's thank you to the community for its friendship and support.

Equipment acquired this year includes a deluge set, which is a device for putting three hose lines in one stream. It is used primarily as a fire break, and to cover exposed adjacent areas using a blaze; a 35 foot ladder, and new self-contained breathing apparatus.

The fire department itself has its own club to which all members belong and has its own separate roster of officers. It has maintained a hundred per cent membership in the California State Firemen's Association since its inception. The former organization now has some 14,000 members throughout the state.

The fire department is under the supervision of the city council with Gunnar Norberg serving as fire commissioner. In addition to Chief Robert E. Smith, there are John Hudelson, assistant chief, and Robert Leidig, fire marshal. Other officers of the department include: James R. Belvail, battalion chief; Robert Bell, captain, engine 1; William Askew, lieutenant, engine 1; James Kelcey, captain, engine 2; Jake May, Jr., lieutenant, engine 2; Carl Patnude, lieutenant, rescue and salvage.

Chief Smith, who came here three years ago, is originally a native of Cleveland, with a superb training in fire fighting. Besides special fire training courses at the University of California, he has had training at Arson Investigation School at Purdue University and has taken the industrial fire fighting course of the State Division of Fire Training.

A former member of the Arcade Fire Department, and a former captain and fire marshal of the City of Woodland, he came to the Carmel job with the assets of youth and enthusiasm as well as a sound experience behind him—all of which have paid off in an increasingly efficient training program for the city.

Long-time Carmel Fire Department Member Paul Mercurio was twice elected to the presidency of the state association, and other local members have held various offices in the state group.

Recently Chief Smith agreed to allow the ADT Company to install direct alarms from the Sunset School and the Peninsula Community Hospital to the firehouse at no cost to the city. This direct alarm system may also be extended to other special points at a later date.

Housed in the fire house at all times is also a 1949 Cadillac ambulance owned by the Carmel Red Cross and operated by the volunteer firemen. This carries radio and complete first aid equipment. It is used in all emergency calls and for transportation calls with approval of the Carmel Red Cross. More than one Carmel resident has had good cause to be thankful for the existence of this co-operation between fire department and Red Cross.

According to Fire Chief Robert

Budgetwise, the fire department expended $29,890.00 in the 1957-58 fiscal year. It is budgeted for $36,754.00 for the 1958-59 period. Actual sums spent normally are somewhat under the amounts budgeted.

Compared to the hundred-thousand-dollar budgets of the other cities on the peninsula—and indeed compared to the departments of most of the state—the Carmel Fire Department is one of the best dollar-for-dollar bargains with which any city has been blessed.

E. Smith, Mr. Swig had rented a hospital bed mattress in San Francisco which did not fit the bed in the house. He placed the mattress on the floor intending to return it next day. The mattress, wrapped in paper, covered a floor heater. Mr. Swig turned up a thermostat in the house lighting the heater, then went out to eat.

William Van Sickle of the Green Lantern reported the blaze to the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department at 5:55 o'clock in the evening. When firemen arrived at the scene, two men were endeavoring to control the fire with garden hoses. For citizen comment, see letters to the editor, page 8.

Kiwanis Christmas Trees on Pilot Lot

A first shipment of 90 Christmas trees arrived in Carmel on Wednesday, fresh from the mountains, for the annual Kiwanis Club Christmas Tree Sale. The silver tips and firs may be purchased at Pilot Market parking lot, Sixth and Junipero streets. More trees arrive at the end of this week. Prices are lower than last year as there is no snow in the mountains to increase cutting and delivery costs.

All money raised by the Kiwanis Club from the sale of the Christmas trees goes for youth guidance work, such as providing scholarships, helping foreign students or sponsoring a youth organization.

AUTUMN WIND

At first rode this conquistador,
Wild-spirited and bold,
Through the Sierra searching for September's aspen gold;
And looted trees whose leaves shone bright
As if from summer's sun mined
To gems of agitated light.
Now he rides past October days
November to explore
Where bonfire colors set ablaze
The slopes of peaks smoking
As Indian Summer makes war
Until one day trees angrily
Let leaves like gleaming arrows fly
Before the Autumn Wind!

—PATRICIA LAW

PINE SISKINS

From sky to leafless oak, the whirr of wings—gray and gold becoming part of tree, becoming part of branch-stirred filigree,
becoming part of bell-thin twitterings.
So many little birds flying together!
Summer would have you count a separate pair;
now by their very number they would dare the shadowed tree, the coming winter weather.

They look at us with quick, with wary eyes and in a cloud drop down to take a drink, then like a cloud that's lifted by the sun,
back to the tree again they swiftly rise, bright yellow on each wing as if to link chill days to come with warm days lately gone.

NOW AUTUMN

the sky between—we watch uneven birds fly kite-taunt ways.
Tree sound is loud in branches;
leaves
stretch into blue, bright copper, metal-thin.
The tawny pup is color-lost, yet heard
making and breaking pathways of his own...

A flicker flies on autumn
under wings—
and we remember half-forgotten things...

KATIE WAITS FOR SPRING

Katie Schleppe, staying in London with her husband Wayne and son, Vaughn, looks forward to the days when she will not have to huddle round an oil-burner and breathe old coal smoke which filters through the window panes.

When spring comes the Schleppe plan "to rent a wee car and tour around, stroking moss on old castle walls, breathing a bit of fresh air and locating friends-of-friends all over beautiful English, Welsh, Irish and Scottish countrysides."

The English snowdrops and catkins on Katie's card indicate, unconsciously we are sure, that she is weary of the English winter and looking even in London stationers' shops for the first harbingers of spring.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

Mrs. R: The Life of Eleanor Roosevelt by Alfred Steinberg is the latest biography of America's foremost woman. You remember that not long ago we started circulating another biography of her written by herself and entitled On My Own. In a short time we shall have ready for circulation a picture biography of her. It is to be hoped that biographies of women of the calibre of Mrs. Roosevelt will find their way into the hands of the young women of this day, leaving them less time to concentrate on the lives of over-developed movie actresses. That sounds stuffy, but librarians are supposed to be stuffy. We try to live up to our advance billing.

We have two new books on games for children. One is called Let's Play a Story by Elizabeth Allstrom. The other is Parties for Children by Marguerite Kohl. This is to be ready for the holidays and that party you may be planning for small ones. And speaking of the holidays, we are loaded with new cook books to help you with your fanciful meals and entertaining. Oh yes, one of them is for children, too. It's called Food Guide and Quantity Cooking for Young Children. The recipes are listed in three columns, planned for groups of 15, 30, and 45 children. Rather plain food, but good and nourishing.

All of the four cook books for adults are specialty things. One is by Maria Donovan and is called The Far Eastern Epicure. This is the type of book that is delightful as well as profitable because of the reading matter which accompanies the recipes. Mrs. Donovan covers the cooking in Java, Malaya, India, China, and Japan. Covers them lightly, that is—that beer as an element in cooking and also as a beverage to go well with certain dishes is stressed in Beer and Good Food by Myra Waldo. Then we have Game Cookery by Raymond Camp, in case you are going out and shoot a few games. Next we have French Family Cooking by Philomene, who writes on cooking for French magazines and is said to be France's leading food editor. And finally, there is Better Homes and Gardens Salad Book, containing recipes for salads to tempt dieters and non-dieters alike, all illustrated with color photographs which alone are beautiful enough to set you salad making three meals a day.

Since Peter Townsend visited so recently in San Francisco, there may be added interest in The Peter Townsend Story by Norman Barrymaine. The author is most concerned with the validity of the objection of the Church to the marriage of Princess Margaret to the young Group Captain, rather than being overly interested in the case as a newsworthy sensation.

George Gershwin, the Man and Legend is by Merle Armitage, and is illustrated by caricatures and drawings done by Gershwin himself. Another biography is about beautiful Lily Langtry, and is called The Jersey Lily. It was written by Pierre Sichel.

Give The Alarm First

THE PINE CONE
Post Office Box G-1
Carmel-by-the-Sea, California
To the Editor (an open letter):

IT BEARS REPETITION

Thanksgiving Day, this year, was saddened for Carmel by the fire at "Sea Oak"; and for Carmel's excellent Fire Department by the fact that they were not given the opportunity to do an even better job of damage control. That they were deprived of that opportunity by sincerely good intentions, was no deterrent to flame spread, and the consequent extent of ultimate loss.

GIVE THE ALARM FIRST!
Then, and only AFTER you have done so, do what you can to hold the flames in check until Chief Smith and his trained men and equipment get there to take over the job. There is only one exception; and that is the matter of saving life. And only then, when there is a greater probability of saving that life than of losing your own. Under all other circumstances, GIVE THE ALARM FIRST!

It should not be necessary that history so frequently repeat this lesson by disastrous consequences. One "Pearl Harbor" should be enough. The "best of intentions" are all well and good, but no fire department, no matter how thoroughly trained and well equipped, can do one bit of good until they get to the fire. But they have no crystal ball. It is up to YOU to call for the help you need. They are ready to come to your aid at any hour of the day or night, be it sunshine or fog, week day or during Church service. They want to help you. But someone must GIVE THE ALARM.

When the "Sea Oaks" fire was first seen by the chap across the street, he and his two friends ran to help. They lost no time in running out several garden hose lines and in attacking the fire from both front and rear; a fire that must already have been burning at least ten minutes. And it was at least five minutes later (it may even have been fifteen) when another passer by was asked to "call the fire department." The next minute the siren screamed, and—in spite of the day and hour—the response was exceptional. I know! Fires and fire fighting are my business (though I am not a Carmel fireman). And I was on the downtown streets when the siren blew.

Bob Smith and his men didn't waste any time once the alarm had been given. And the work they did in bringing that fire under control, at that late date, deserves a great deal more credit than I heard being expressed by many of the neighborhood who watched from the sidelines. It is unfortunate that only those who are soldiers and officers in this army appreciate the power of our common enemy, fire. The diabolical speed with which even a tiny flame can grow on the perfect fuels of dry lumber; combustibly coated surfacings, curtains and the normal contents of the average dwelling. The stubborn resistance to extinguishment once a blaze has really gained a foothold.

When the Chicago Fire Department boasts (and deservedly) that at the average fire they "at least save the foundations," they are not trying to be "funny." They mean that it is the rare fire that escapes control and gets beyond the "building of origin." Bob Smith and his capable men not only kept the "Sea Oaks" fire from involving either of its neighbor dwellings (one was less than ten feet away), the nearby garage, nor any trees not actually burning when the first truck arrived; there was still a good share of the building remaining when they finished the long job of searching out the last spark and hot spot.

What bothered them most, as they washed down their equipment and laid fresh hose in the truck beds, was the certain knowledge that had they been given the chance to get there even five minutes sooner, the damage could have been held to but a fraction. These men, your next-door neighbors, ask very little of you for the unselfish interest they show for the good of our community. The very least we owe them in return is to give them every chance to do their best.

Yes; Even if—after giving that alarm—we are successful in slapping down that small grass fire, or find that the smoke was just the burned cake in the oven; they will not be one-half as critical as when you waste that precious "first five

Eugene Holcomb

Eugene Holcomb died peacefully in his sleep on November 24 in his home in Hatton Fields after a long illness. He was 90 years old.

Mr. Holcomb was an electrical engineer on the executive staff of Consumers Power Company in Jackson, Michigan, before his retirement. He came to live in Carmel 18 and a half years ago and built his home here in 1941. His many friends knew him as a great gentleman, a man of fine integrity with a wonderful mind.

He is survived by his wife, Eudora M. Holcomb; two sons, Frederick Morse Holcomb Sr. and Harlow T. Holcomb, both architects in Washington, D. C.; a grandson, F. M. Holcomb Jr., an electrical engineer with Boeing Aircraft Company in Seattle; a granddaughter, Mrs. Oliver Everett, whose husband is an architect for F.F.H.A. in San Francisco; and seven great-grandchildren.

Private memorial services were held on November 28 at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Linda Withers and Gene Bartlett have been chosen secretary and treasurer, respectively, of the Police Training club at Monterey Peninsula College. Bartlett is also public relations man for the newly formed campus club.

minutes" in heroic futility before "hollering for help." And, if—as in this case—it turns out that you really need them, the more effective work they will be able to do will amount to an actual cash reward to you, in greatly lowered costs of repair.

The next time that you smell smoke or see a flame, reach for a phone, or run screaming to your neighbor. Don't try to be a fireman! Call the men who are. GIVE THE ALARM FIRST.

Woman's Auxiliary Does Its Part To Put Christ Back Into Christmas

Christmas giving and the Christmas spirit pervaded the December meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer on Tuesday afternoon. Gifts to various welfare projects of the organization, totaling $430 were voted or announced as follows: $250 to the Navajo Indian Mission school at Holbrook, Arizona; from receipts for the missionary tea given by Circle 2, Mrs.

Jay M. Affonin, chairman, $50 to Chinese Gakuin school in Japan, $30 to support a leper child for one year in the program of the American Leprosy Mission, $30 for the Indian mission work carried on by the American Friends, $70 for the crippled children's hospital in Pusan, Korea. The Auxiliary board had recommended $150 for the Indian school at Holbrook but the members, upon hearing of the needs at the school, upped the amount to $250.

At the luncheon which preceded the meeting Dr. Olive Swezy, who directs the weekly relief sewing for Korean children, presented two children dressed in Korean national costume, worn by members of the nobility. Scott Cureton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Cureton, wore a light blue silk smock with darker blue vest and many-colored sleeves, and Mary Ann, daughter of Mrs. John K. Paul, wore a silk dress prevailing red with sleeves to match those of Scott's costume. The two costumes were received from Korea last week. The children were greeted with an enthusiastic hand as they made their way around the tables.

The business meeting opened with a brief reading of the life and work of Lew Wallace, author of Ben Hur, following with reading the shepherds' scene from the Wallace novel, by Mrs. C. W. Robinson. Mrs. E. Leigh Mudge carried on the Christmas spirit with devotions suggesting the need of putting Christ back into Christmas in place of the commercializing that so frequently prevails. The president, Mrs. John R. Christie, suggested that members send Christmas cards to the oldest member of the church, Miss Ida May Curtis, soon to have her one hundredth birthday. She is now in the Community Hospital but can see visitors and appreciates being remembered.—L. L.T.

Ella Truesdale

Miss Ella K. Truesdale, a retired English teacher, died on November 28 in a local hospital after several months of ill health.

Miss Truesdale was born in Jamestown, New York, on February 19, 1874. She taught in Detroit, Michigan, for 40 years before she retired and came to live in Carmel eight years ago. She was instructor in English at Northern High School in Detroit and later at Wayne University, and also was head of the English department at Eastern High School in the same city.

A member of the American Association of University Women, Miss Truesdale was a former president of the Detroit branch and a

It is no vacation as nine works of literature must be read and prepared in addition to other research projects. I am exploring the countryside around Madrid, one week end walking through the oak hills and baby pines, one Sunday to Toledo and tomorrow to the Sierra Guadarrama for hiking."

Kurt is the son of Mrs. Julian von Meier of Carmel and a graduate of Carmel High School. He has sent a prospectus of his courses to Donald Craig, his former Spanish teacher at the high school. "Maybe someone else will be interested in coming to the University of Madrid," says Kurt.

Carmel Mayor In $50,000 Slander Suit

The row goes back to the planning commission's and city council's denial of a building permit for a lot Walsh owned on the east side of San Carlos street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth avenues. To grant a permit would create a 20 foot building site of the adjoining lot. Walsh was denied the permit in 1951.

This year he sold the lot to Irma Barnes through May Youngberg, a real estate dealer. When Miss Barnes sought a building permit from the building inspector it was denied. On May 29 the planning commission refused to declare the property a building site. Miss Barnes' appeal to the city council on July 9 was also denied. She and Miss Youngberg then brought action against Walsh in superior court charging "fraud and deceit" and asking $5000 damages. They claimed that they were not aware that the property was not a legal building site and Walsh was.

Walsh's suit against both women, the mayor and the city is his answer and cross-complaint, and his charges are based on alleged comments in the July 9 public hearing before the city council in which the council denied Miss Barnes' appeal from the planning commission's ruling.

His answer to the charges of "deceit and fraud" is that Miss Youngberg was acting for herself and an undisclosed principal in the sale of the lot, and not for Walsh. "If any obligation to mention the ordinance of the city existed it was her duty and responsibility. She induced the plaintiff to pay $4,240 for the lot with a profit of $424 to herself."

He charges that at the public hearing before the council Miss Youngberg said, "Why should you condemn this lot rather than the man who formerly owned it?"

Walsh states in his complaint that Mayor Chitwood said that he (the mayor) regarded it as a result of "a breach of faith on the part of the seller because he was aware of the situation." This alleged statement is the basis of Walsh's slander suit against the mayor.

His subject will be Latin America, The World's Fastest Growing Region.

Fourth in the fall series of lectures on South America, the meeting is open to the public without charge. Mr. Browning has traveled extensively and his special interest is Mexico.

Water Board Members To Report On Junket At Dec. 15 Meeting

Next meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Water District Board is on December 15 in the board room at the Airport at 7:30 o'clock. At this time reports are expected from members Ernest Barbour and Newell Davies on visits to Marin, North Sacramento and possibly other operating districts, as well as the Public Utilities Commission. At the December 1 meeting of the Water District Board, Newell and Davies were authorized to make these fact finding visits and allowed $25 per day travel expenses plus a ten cents a mile mileage allowance.

At the same meeting Myron W. Haas, Seaside attorney, was hired as counsel for the Water District Board from among six applicants. He agreed to handle the job for $150 a month legal fee plus $75 a month for secretarial services. Haas, a graduate of Hastings School of Law moved to the Peninsula in February from San Francisco where he had practiced since 1952. He is a Monterey resident and attorney for the Seaside Urban Redevelopment Agency.

Barbour and Davies, representing the budget and finance committee of the board, reported they are endeavoring to borrow money from local banks to finance operations of the Water District Board created by public vote on November 4.

Because of the report of the subcommittee on general government included in the report of the Citizens' Committee Studying Annexation, Building Inspector Floyd Adams is happy.

"If," says the subcommittee report, "any large scale annexation were to occur, the Building Inspector would need a party-time secretary."

2 Councilmen Regard Area Planning With Little Enthusiasm

Mayor John S. Chitwood said, "It's a mistake for Carmel to take the attitude that we are too far away to take an interest in what's going on in the rest of the Peninsula."

Will Shaw of the Citizens Planning Association, which studied the matter along with the League of Women Voters, said, "For Carmel to say 'you go ahead and design your part of the world; we'll design ours' is an ostrich attitude."

"We haven't really suffered a large population boom yet, but it's coming and we'll need help when it does. Palo Alto was once a beautiful peninsula, too, and now it's the tail of the San Francisco dog. We've got to have some defense against 'urban sprawl.' Carmel is, in effect, shrinking with regard to the area around it and it can't stand alone."

Among others who joined the discussion were Mrs. Patricia Hall, who said, "If we're going to have an area commission, we should support it," and George Wilcox, chairman of the Carmel Planning Commission and a member of the Area Commission, who chided Norberg for bringing personalities into the picture and promised the Carmel master plan would be respected by the area organization.

Ralph Mapstead also addressed the council, claiming to be "an ostrich and an isolationist," and recommending a stay-out policy with the area commission.

In other action the council approved Mayor Chitwood's seven appointments to the new Carmel Arts Commission: Geza St. Galy, Vaughn Shoemaker, Gilbert Boyer, Larry Barretto, Nelo Drizari, Mrs. James (Ruth) Cooke and Maxine Albro (Mrs. Parker Hall).

Francis Whitaker got the evening off to a roaring start when he demanded to know whether the council was going to heed the deed restrictions on property given the city for a park. This land is Block 12 bounded by Mission, Junipero, First and Second streets.

Whitaker received two mutually exclusive answers to his query, one from the mayor who explained, "what the city has been doing is filling the area in and when it is filled, it will be turned into a park."

The other was from Councilman James C. Buffington, Jr., who said he understood it was the opinion of former councils that the lot was not suitable for a park site.

Trying for another approach, Whitaker asked, "Do you consider the storage of old bathtubs, bed-springs, boilers, wood and litter in compliance with the deed restriction?"

"Properly covered, we think it might be," someone offered.

"Thank you very much," Whitaker said.

The council discussed but took no official action on a number of other projects, including the recently publicized recommendation of the planning commission for acquisition of land at Ocean and Carpenter for park purposes.

The move for annexation of Carmel Point was officially a dead issue last night after the council moved to table the original petition since a number of the petitioners have now written the council asking that their names be removed.

Carmel Point Property Owners Association, under whose sponsorship annexation proceedings were initiated, have not only withdrawn their support, but disbanded their organization, "in the interest of neighborhood harmony."

A purchasing ordinance which would simplify purchasing and inventories without making substantial changes in current procedures, passed its first reading before the council.

City Attorney John Morse recommended that the interim zoning ordinance, which expires Dec. 31, 1958, be extended and the council voted to refer the matter to the planning commission, suggesting the date be extended until Dec. 31, 1959.

The Carmel Knolls subdivision question got some attention prior to the Area Planning Commission argument, when Norberg reviewed the history of the County Commission action and moved the council send another recommendation to the county group, reaffirming the council stand on the matter and

Council Says No To 5 Tree Removals, Yes To 2 On Tues. Tour

The city council saved five trees on city property, allowed two to be cut down, approved two drainage projects, denied a sidewalk grade variance and referred a tree planting request to the planning commission during their mobile meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

Denied was the request of the Union Oil Company to remove a redwood and black walnut growing in the sidewalk in front of the service station at the northwest corner of Sixth and San Carlos. The council also denied the Union Oil Company petition to realign the sidewalk grade in front of the station. The oil company maintained that the two large trees impeded pedestrian traffic and that the guard rail and retaining wall strongly urging against downgrading of zoning in areas adjacent to Carmel. The council referred the matter to the planning commission "for quick action."

Among resolutions passed were those authorizing purchase of a Huber five-eighths-ton Road Roller and a supplemental appropriation of $208—councilmen said any interested citizen may view it now in the city yards—promoting Rudolph F. Lange, street laborer, to a salary of $362 per month, employing Maurice Grimshaw as a fire engine driver at $383 per month, and setting the salary of Eleanor S. Shepherd, half-time stenographer in the city clerk's office, at $271 per month.

Among the reports heard was one from Norberg's special committee on chain stores and means of regulation of downtown store buildings. He presented a chart and written report from Col. C. A. De Camp, (U.S.A., Ret.), citizen-member of the committee, suggesting possible restrictions which could be imposed by the city on individual buildings in the downtown district.

between the sidewalk and the station drive were hazardous. The company requested trees, rail and wall be removed and the sidewalk gradually sloped from the street level to their property level below.

William H. Ellis was allowed to remove two diseased pines to acquire driveway access to his building site at Monterey and Third streets. He was required to leave two healthy trees which he had asked permission to remove.

Reginald Machado was told he could not cut down a small cypress to obtain better access to his garage on Torres street between Second and Third avenues.

August Nieto and the city co-operatively will build a storm drain at the northeast corner of Tenth and Junipero streets. Mr. Nieto will contribute $500 towards the project and the city will assume the responsibility of installing manholes at a cost of approximately $200 and furnish labor, the council decided. The drain will run along Mr. Nieto's property line on Tenth avenue for 57 feet.

A city storm drainage extension was approved by the council on their Tuesday tour for Fifth avenue east of Junipero street, the cost not to exceed $600. The existing drain in this area, beside the Carmel Laundry, is at present old and broken.

Mrs. Charles Rayne's request to plant young pines in the center island on Ocean avenue at Lincoln street, where old pines are dying, was referred to the public improvements committee of the planning commission for consideration in their tree planting program.
